

FLUTTERSHY - SPOTLIGHT ICEBREAKER

Fluttershy, the yellow pony is kind and gentle to everyone. In this game have all the players sit in a circle and hand each child an inflated balloon with a small prize in it such as a piece of candy or My Little Pony sticker. Number each balloon according to how many players there are and write the number on each balloon with a marker.

Play music and have all the children pass the balloons around in the circle (like hot potato) but with more "potatoes". Stop the music randomly. All players should then stop passing balloons and hold onto the one they have. Call out a number and the child holding the balloon with that number must come sit in the middle of the circle.

APPLEJACK'S TRUE OR FALSE GAME

Applejack, the coral-colored pony models the character trait of honesty. In this game players are tested on their knowledge of the little ponies. Each participant gets two index cards one with a T written on it, and the other with an F.

Each player takes turn saying one My little pony statement, and the other players hold up a card guessing whether it is true or false. For each statement that players guess correctly they get a point. At the end of the game whoever has the most points wins.

They then run it across to their team's empty bowl on the other side and dropping it in - they cannot touch the skittle with anything but their straw. Finally, they return to tag the next player in line who does the same thing with the same color skittle. This continues to every player on the team has done the first color, and then they start again on the second color.

MY LITTLE PONY PARTY GAMES & IDEAS

PINKIE PIE'S LAUGH-O-THON

Pinkie pie is all about laughter, this is the element she represents after all. In this game one player is chosen to represent Pinkie and it is their mission to make the other players laugh. The others players will try and keep a straight face as long as possible while Pinkie tries anything short of physical contact in order to make them crack a smile or laugh.

Once a person is caught laughing they are out. The last person who cracks a smile or laughs gets to be Pinkie in the next round.

PIN THE CUTIE MARK ON PINKIE

The My Little Pony Party Game is a fun twist on the party classic pin the tail on the donkey. Print and hand a picture of Pinkie on the wall. Blindfold players one at a time and hand them a cutie mark (these can be made from construction paper with tape on the back). Each player attempts to place their cutie mark in the spot it belongs on the picture.

Unicorn Relay

I have some pink unicorn hobby horses, so we can divide the kids into teams – with MLP team names - and they have to do a relay race using the unicorns from one end of the Hall to the other.

Mustang Roundup

Choose one or more children to be rustlers. All the other My Little Pony birthday party guests are mustangs. When the rustlers hear command "Corral 'em!" - They have to catch the mustangs. When players get caught, they go to a designated area called "Corral." There they must stand with their legs wide apart.

To be freed, one of the free mustangs must crawl between their legs. Keep the game going until every mustang has been caught

Wonder bolt Obstacle Course

Use various items such as Tunnels, hula hoops, cones to set up a Wonder bolt Obstacle course for teams to race against. For older children, add an Egg and Spoon relay dynamic and race Rainbow Dash Style "as fast as you possible can"

Twilight Sparkles "Friendship is Magic" wish making

Seat children in a circle and explain Twilight Sparkles "Friendship is Magic" story. Have the children mix a special pony wishing pot full of a rainbow of coloured glitter. Each child receives a feather (each magical coloured feather corresponds to different personality/attribute type). Stir with your magical feather and sprinkle in the yard for extra Birthday Fun Magic!

Pony, Pony Horse

This traditional party game of Duck, Duck, Goose is perfect for the restless ponies J All children must sit in a circle. Choose one child to be 'it' they must walk around the outside of the circle tapping each child on the head saying 'duck' 'duck'. They choose one person to be 'goose'. The child who is 'it' then must run around the circle to get back and sit in the geese's spot. The goose must chase after them, attempting to catch them before they get back to their spot. The goose then becomes 'it'.

Pinkie Pie Says

Again a traditional party game “Simon Says” that the children will love. Use Pony phrases as instructions

Message Mix-Up

Seat your guests in a circle. Help the birthday child think of a message such as “Star Shimmer is one of the best loved ponies in the town, because she takes such good care of her friends”. The birthday child then whispers the message to the person on their left, and so on. When the message has travelled all the way around the circle, the person on the birthday child’s right tells the message out loud. Then the birthday child tells the original message. Expect the unexpected when you learn the original versus the final mixed-up message. Try again with another player starting the message.

There’s a Pony on my Back

Pair up your party guests and put a sticker or a picture of a printable MY LITTLE PONY character on each child’s back. Have the guests try to guess which pony is on their back by asking their partners questions that can be answered with only “yes” or “no”. For example, “Am I pink?”, “Can I Fly?” or “Do I Dance?”
